Digital Photography Daycamp

Bring your own camera to this one day photo camp and learn how to use it like a pro. Each participant will be taught the basics of photography and camera mechanics. Photo assignments will keep the learning environment structured, while encouraging everyone to be free to explore the world in the way they see it. The photo assignments here offer a rare opportunity for students to venture into artistic territory they never go to in school. With cameras in hand, everyone will explore the benefits of critical thinking and discover new ways to articulate their thoughts and feelings visually. Parents are welcome to participate and for those that do, they will see how a digital camera can be used to instill a sense of self-worth and respect for others in those that use them. Every participant will undergo a positive transformation as they propel themselves into a daylong enterprise of artistic excellence.

CHILDREN'S FITNESS TAX CREDIT

The Government of Canada provides a tax credit on amounts of up to $500 paid by parents to register a child in an eligible physical activity program. The credit applies to children up to the age of 16.

Eligible programs include supervised children's programs that have a significant physical activity component, such as indoor soccer, floor hockey, gymnastics and sportball. Programs must be at least eight weeks long at a minimum of one session per week. Physically active camps, like Soccer Camp, must be at least five consecutive days.

Richmond Hill's Community Services Department has many programs eligible for this tax credit. Let's encourage our children to lead healthy, active lives!

For more information about the Children's Fitness Tax Credit, visit cra-arc.gc.ca/fitness.

Kids Baking Program

When you bake at home with your children, you're doing more than helping them make treats they love. You're teaching valuable skills with every recipe. They're learning about math skills such as addition and measurement. Baking even encourages teamwork and teaches children about the 'science of food'. But most importantly, baking together builds fond memories and creates traditions that last a lifetime.

Children's Programs

Photography – Hot Shots, The Art of Photography for Kids

Unlike painting and sculpture, photography depends least on manual dexterity making it an ideal tool for self-expression. Kids will quickly learn how to identify the basic features of a digital camera. For the remainder of the program a wide range of exercises will help to develop each individual's visual creativity. The photographs taken by your child will illustrate the importance of framing and good composition. They will also explore other visual elements that add mood and excitement to pictures such as light and motion. Best of all we supply the camera for those who don't have one and students receive a digital slideshow of their best shots.
